ESG data management built for real assets

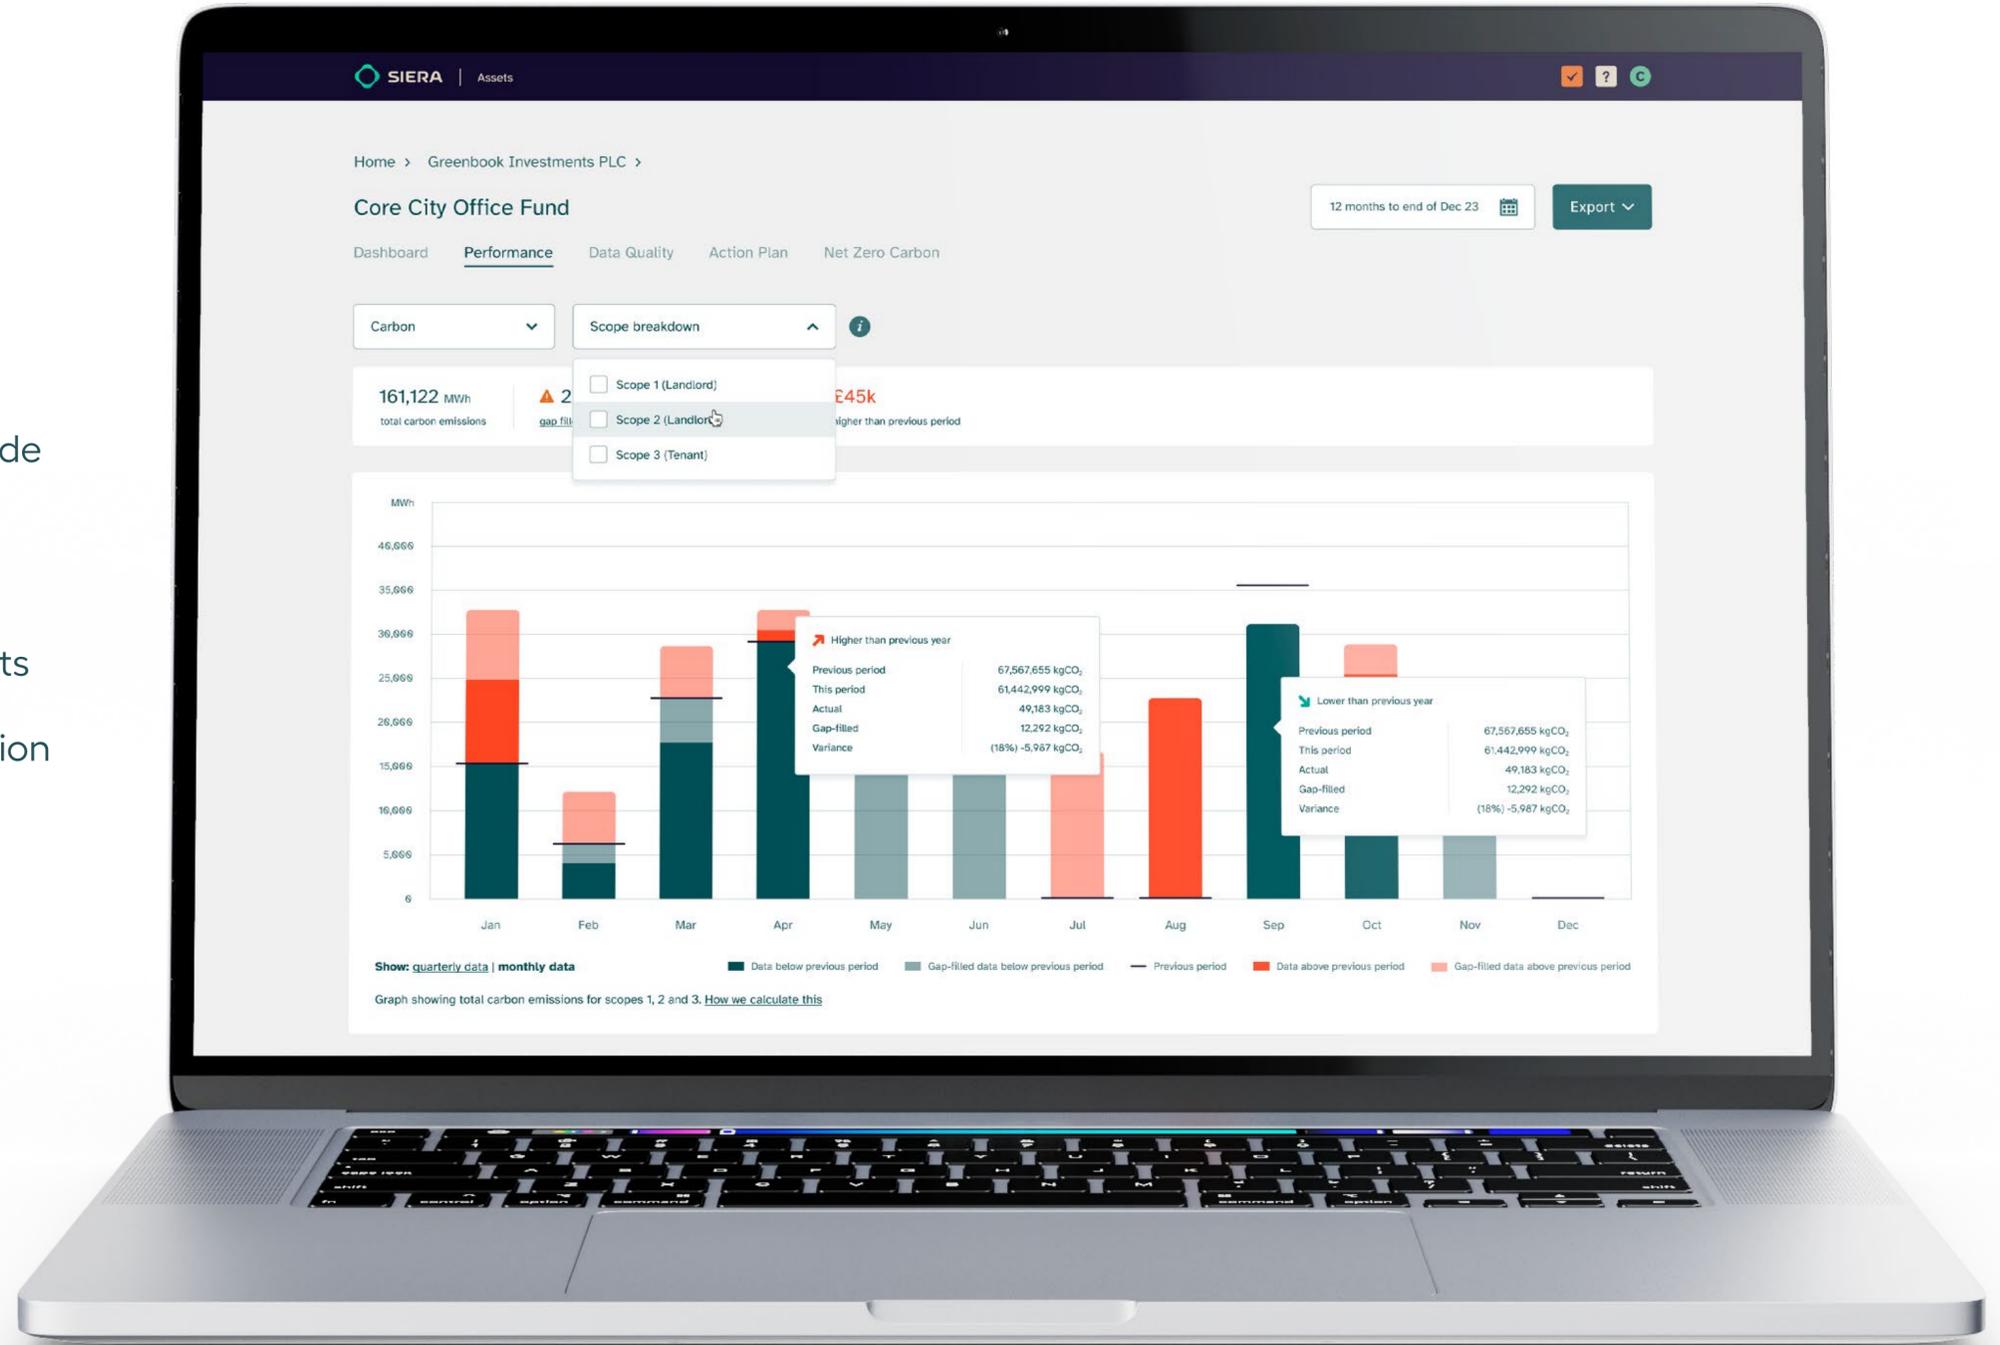

Real asset investors face mounting stakeholder pressure to establish, monitor, and meet sustainability targets in light of the rapidly changing climate.

Several hurdles need to be overcome. First, gathering high-quality data from diverse systems is complex and time-consuming. Second, decarbonising assets in line with net zero goals demands significant effort and knowledge. Third, producing accurate performance reports in response to constantly evolving regulations adds further strain on already limited resources.

To resolve these challenges, EVORA developed an automated ESG data management platform. Built to meet the unique needs of real asset professionals, SIERA drives asset performance, generates compliant reports, and roadmaps sustainable financial goals across assets, funds, and portfolios for a seamless and secure user experience.
